A SCRAP OF HISTORY.

In his speech at Cooper Union, Oct. 22, Mr. Hewitt, then a candidate for mayor, now mayor-elect, gave a sketch of his life as an answer to some attacks made upon him as a 'rich man.' In the course of these remarks he said: 'I became nearly blind and was compelled to pass a year in Europe, for which I paid out of the earnings which I had laid up from the lessons I had given. On my way home another accident occurred—the ship on which I was went to the bottom, and I was saved by another accident in one of the boots of that ship in company with a man who has been mayor of this city, who was and is my friend and brother, and will be to the end of my life. I landed in midwinter in a borrowed suit of sailor's clothes—not a thing of my own—and I had three silver dollars in my pocket, which constituted my entire worldly wealth. I was 22 years of age.'

Let the captain of the rescuing ship tell the story as he did a few years ago to a little circle of friends in a New York club:

'In 1844 I was commanding the ship Atalanta, and in the month of December of that year was making a voyage from Liverpool to New York. On the 11th I was crossing the gulf stream, and got well over it, when, near evening, I saw a ship under full sail several miles to the windward and evidently heading for New York like myself. My Barometer had been falling rapidly, and as I always regarded it with great care and obeyed its orders, I took warning and shortened sail. But I noticed that the stranger kept everything spread, and when night came on and hid her from sight she was far off on the horizon, and didn't appear to have taken in a stitch of canvas. During the night it came on to blow heavily, a regular cyclone, in fact; and you may be sure I was glad I had taken in sail. It only lasted a couple of hours or so, but was very rough as long as it was on us.

'About 9 in the forenoon the watch reported pieces of wreck floating on the water, and an hour later we sighted a boat, and bore down for her. It was as I had feared, the stranger had foundered in the gale, and this was one of her boats.

'She proved to be, or have been, the American ship Alabamian, Capt. Hitchcock, from Leghorn to New York, and besides her officers and crew, she had two passengers in the cabin. She was under full sail when the wind struck her, and in a very short time she was an unseaworthy wreck. She had two boats, one a staunch lifeboat, and the other an old and rotten longboat. Lots were drawn for places, and the lifeboat fell to the first officer, while the longboat went to the captain. The two cabin passengers went to the longboat and also nine of the crew. It was the lifeboat that I picked up, with the first officer in command and he said they left the ship at 2 in the morning, and lost sight of the longboat soon after. She was nearer the ship than they, as the captain had been the last to leave her.

'The weather was cold, and they suffered considerably from their cramped positions, but in a little while after coming on board they were warmed up and all right. Nothing could be seen of the longboat, and it was not certain whether she was still afloat. I determined to save her if possible to do it, and the great question was to determine what course to steer to find her. I reasoned that Capt. Hitchcock would try to get out of the gulf stream as soon as he could, in order to find smoother water, and, after carefully studying the situation, I changed my course in accordance with this theory. I sent men aloft to keep a sharp lookout, and report the least sight of a boat and to watch for anything that would indicate she had gone down and was past all help.

'Noon came, and then 1 o'clock, and then 2, and no signs of the boat. I went to the cabin with my first officer and the officer of the Alabamian, and we held a council. One of them thought I ought to run on another course, and he gave his reasons for it, and then the other, who had been wavering on the subject, joined him. I persisted in my belief, and stood alone in it. Somehow I could not see their reasons as they did, and I had a firm conviction that I was right, and if the captain of the Alabamian had done what I should do under similar circumstances, he would be exactly in the track I was running.

'The afternoon went on, and about an hour before sunset I went into the crosstrees to have a look on my own account. I swept the horizon with my glass over and over again, but saw nothing and felt that a terrible responsibility rested on me, and what would be said of me for holding my course against the advice of the others, if I should not find the boat.

'Just as the sun was within a hand spike's length of the horizon I saw a speck on the crest of a wave. It went down as the wave fell, and I believe my heart stopped beating till the speck came up again and showed itself. There it was, and no mistake, and it was exactly dead ahead as near as you could draw a line.

'I hailed the deck, and sent the first officer to take the wheel. I told him not to vary the breadth of a hair from the course we were running. Then I came down and sent a man up to take my place.

'"Have you seen anything?" everybody aked, as I reached the deck.

'"Nothing I'm certain of," I answered; 'but we may have developments presently. I don't know if my heat was beating then, but presume it was.

'In a little while—it may have been a quarter of an hour, and just as the sun was dipping into the horizon—the man in the rigging called out, 'Sail ho!'

'"Where away?' I asked.

'"Dead ahead, sir. I think it's the boat.'

'My heart went up in my mouth, but I tried to appear as cool as an iceberg. Of course, everybody else was all excitement, and that was the more reason why I should not be. Besides, I was captain, and nobody else was, as I had shown them by sticking to my course.

'The night came on clear and beautiful, and we kept straight on. We lost sight of the boat as the daylight faded, but in half an hour or so we saw her again, and we still had her right in line. As we neared her I kept the ship up a little, so as to bring the boat under our lee, and I put men in the fore chains and along the sides with plenty of lines, and made all possible preparations to make fast.. I knew the men in the boat would be so chilled with the cold that they would be nearly helpless, and whateyer was to be done would have to be done by ourselves.

'We got them out all right, and it was as I had surmised, they were most of them too much benumbed to climb up the sides, and had to be helped. When they were all safe on board we tried to hoist the boat in, and she broke in two with her own weight. How she ever lived as long as she did is a mystery.

'Capt. Hitchcock told me they rowed as long as they could after leaving the ship, with the intention of getting into the smoother water beyond the gulf stream, and he thought that in case I fell in with the other boat I would do just as I had done. The two cabin passengers took their share of the labor with the rest. They were both young men, with a difference of perhaps five or six years in their ages, and had been traveling in Europe, the elder of the two being tutor for the younger, who was the son of a prominent citizen of New York. They took passage at Leghorn for New York, and when their turn came to enter the long boat they did so without complaint, and had borne the privations of the night and day as cheerfully as any one else.

'All day they had watched and hoped and hoped and watched, but there was no sign of a sail. The night threatened to be cold, and there was little expectation that any of the party would live till morning even if the boat continued to float. As the sun neared the horizon the younger man was lying in his over coat and a blanket, while the elder sat in the stern with the captain.

'Just as the sun was dipping into the waves the elder of the twain said to Capt. Hitchcock that, with his permission, he would offer prayer. Of course it was given at once. 'And I never, in all my life,' said Capt. Hitchcock, 'heard a more beautiful prayer from lips of mortal man. And as he said 'amen,' and I said 'amen,' too, I raised my eyes and saw your sail.'

'Perhaps,' said Capt. Raymond to his group of listeners—'perhaps you'd like to know the names of those two passengers? They are familiar to you all, and you'll find them at the bottom of this letter, which I received, with a silver pitcher, a few days after we reached New York. I haven't seen it for some time, until it turned up today while I was over hauling my desk. It is an old letter, you see, and was written before the envelope was invented.'

The letter was passed around and handled with great care. It was then read aloud by one of the group, and ran as follows:

'NEW YORK, Dec. 28, 1844.

'DEAR SIR—Desirous of testifying our grateful sense of the noble disinterestedness with which you stood from your course on the 12th of December last in search of the captain, passengers and crew of the ship Alatamian, which foundered on that day at sea, and of the kindness we received at your hands while your guests, we beg your acceptance of the accompanying piece of plate.

'We know that no offering of ours can add to the proud feeling of satisfaction which must have animated your bosom when upon your own deck, you saw the eighteen human beings whose lives you had sayed; but we wish you to posses some slight token which in after days may serve to remind your children and your friends of how nobly you did your duty to your God and fellow men; and we desire that other ship masters, incited as well by their own humane impulses as by the approbation which so noble an act never fails to call down from the public, may 'go and do likewise.'

'In conclusion, we congratulate you upon the opportunity you have enjoyed of gratifying the most generous prompting of the soul, we pray that Heaven may shower its choicest blessupon you and yours, and we beg you to be assured of the lasting gratitude of, very truly, your friends,

EDWARD COOPER,
ABRAM S. HEWITT,
'Passengers.

'To Capt. George B. Raymond, of the ship Atalanta of New York.'

'A day or two after receiving and answering this letter,' said Capt. Raymond, 'I received an invitation to go to Mr. Peter Cooper's house, as the family was very desirous of meeting me. I was so busy with the affairs of my ship that I could not respond at once, but sent word that I would call on New Year's day. When I called, and my name was announced they did did not wait for me to go into the parlor, but all came out into the hall to greet me; the ladies pressed around me, and I assure you it was rather embarrassing for a young sea dog to receive so much attention. I had done nothing more than my duty, and somehow felt that I was being thanked and praised a good deal beyond what I merited. I tried to tell them so, but they wouldn't listen to me, and all the time I was there they made such a hero of me that I didn't know what to say, and wondered how I would be able to escape. None of the Cooper or Hewitt family have ever forgotten me, but on the contrary, they miss no opportunity of referring to that incident of the 12th of December. When the Lotos club gave a dinner to Mayor Cooper I wanted to come as much as I ever wanted to do anything in all my life, and I thought I would do so; but I don't like to be called up for a speech, and I knew that Hewitt or Cooper would be sure to have me out and make me say something; so I staid away, and saved the club from listening to the story of the loss of the Alabamian.'

'If you had told the story as you have told it now," said one of the listeners, 'you would have made one of the most effective speeches ever made at a dinner party.'

'So say we all.'—Harpers Weekly.

History of the Postal Card.

A treatise on the history of the postal card has been published in Berlin. The originator of the idea is said to have been a German state official, Dr. Stephan, who wrote an essay upon it in 1865. Austria was the first to adopt it, beginning in 1869. The first three months witnessed the passage of 2,930,000 cards through the mails. Germany followed suit in 1870, and on the first day after the introduction of the postal card 45,468 were sent off in Berlin alone; and in two months over 2,000,000 were used. Other countries soon initiated the same step. During the Franco-Prussian war the postal card was a great boon to both armies. Over 10,000,000 cards passed during the campaign between the German soldiers and their friends and homes. The greatest proportional consumption of the postal card occurs unquestionably in the United States. The whole of Europe is estimated to use annually 350,000,000, while the consumption in the United States alone will probably not fall short of 230,000,000. Germany consumed in 1879 122,747,000. The use of the postal card is, moreover, constantly increasing, and, to some extent, at the expense of the letter correspondence. There are now said to be seventy-three countries in which it is introduced. Austria, which has the honor of first putting the idea into practical execution, is now said to have cards of the poorest material and most inconvenient form.

HAIGHT'S CONFESSION.

The Story of the Express Robbery and Fotheringham's Innocence.

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 4.—W. W. Haight, one of Witrock's accomplices in the train robbery, has furnished a written statement of his connection with the affair. He says that poverty and his inability to obtain employment forced him to devise some means whereby he might provide his wife and child with the necessities of life. To do this he planned the robbery and approached Witrock with the sheme. Witrock became enthusiastic over it and thereafter took the affair into his hands and he (Haight) heard nothing more of him until he read an account of the robbery in the papers. Soon after that Witrock sent him $1,000 by Oscar Cook and summoned him to Leavenworth. There Witrock gave him $10,000 more.

He says it was he who forged Mr. Damsel's signature to the pass which was presented to Messenger Fotheringham and had the Adams Express letter heads and envelopes printed. Fotheringham, he asserts, is absolutely innocent of every charge brought against him.

The convicted robbers will be sent to the penitentiary to-morrow. Witrock said to-day that he stipulated with Pinkerton's detectives that they must lift the mortgage on his mother's house before he would restore any of the stolen money. This he said they had promised to do and added that it was done when they went out to Leavenworth, and thus his chief object in robbing the express was accomplished. The mortgage was for $1,700.

Examination Stories.

Some Funny Ones Told of Students Who Were Excited.

As might be expected, the examinations of medical students afford some good stories—true or otherwise. As might also be expected, some of them are wittily impudent. For instance, a "badgering" examiner asked a student what means he would employ to induce copious perspiration in a patient, and got for an answer, 'I'd make him try to pass an examination before you, sir.' The most frequent cited anecdote of this kind is that of the brusque examiner—said by some to have been Dr. Abernethy—who, losing patience with a student who had answered badly, exclaimed: 'Perhaps, sir, you could tell me the names of the muscles I would put in action if I were to kick you?' 'Undoubtedly, sir,' came the prompt reply; 'you would put into motion the flexors and extensors of my arm, for I should knock you down.' On the same line as this was the retort made to M. Lefebure de Fourcy, a French examiner, celebrated not only for his learning, but also for his severity and rudeness. He was examining a youth, who, though well up in his work, was hesitating in answering one of the questions put to him. Losing temper at this, the examiner shouted to an attendant, 'Bring a truss of hay for this young gentleman's breakfast.' 'Bring two,' cooly added the examinee, 'Monseur and I will breakfast together.' Of such alleged answers as this by students as that the pancreas was so named after the Midland railway station, that the bone of the upper arm (humerus) was called the humerous, and was so styled because it was known as the funny-bone; or, that the ankle-bone (tarsus) was so called because St. Paul walked upon it to the city of that name—of such alleged answers as these it is charitable to suppose that they must be weak inventions of the enemy. An inspector, who had been explaining to a class that the land of the world was not continuous, said to the boy who happened to be standing nearest to him: 'Now, could your father walk around the world?' 'No sir,' was promptly answered. 'Why not?' 'Because he's dead,' was the altogether unlooked-for response. As little anticipated, probably, was the answer made to another inspector, who asked, 'What is a hovel?' and was met with the reply, 'That which you live in.'

MODERN CIVILIZATION.

Human Beings Living on Oats and Sleeping on Straw.

(HENRY APPLETON IN "MAYFLOWER.")

NEW YORK, Dec. 14.—It happened that not long ago my business led me through the classic precincts of Mulberry street, one of the arms of that peculiar civilization which is summed up in every great city. Years ago, I remember, when Tony Pastor first spread his wings as a popular warbler, he used to preface some of his ditties by the remark that he had only been induced to sing them at the urgent request of some of the first families of Mulberry street.

While picking my way through the groups of ragged, motiveless, poverty besotted creatures, who for want of a better name are still called human beings, my attention was arrested by a large sign ahead on which was written, "Hay, Straw and Oats." This otherwise not unusual sign seemed strange on this street, where there appeared no detached carts, or any indications that there were stalls in the neighborhood. The fact is that in this vicinity civilization is at so low an ebb that any place where beast of burden will lie down is already monopolized by men, women and children who are more profitable lodgers. Horses find quarters in more advanced localities, where human beings do not covet the places reserved for them.

In the front of this store were a number of bales of clean straw, of a kind not usually used for bedding horses, and within its dingy walls were numerous barrels and boxes. My attention was soon attracted by a wretched man coming out of the door with a bundle of straw under his arm, who was followed by another with a dirty bag in his hand, apparently filled with corn or grain. Pretty soon a man who appeared to be a helper in the store came to the door, and I made bold to ask him, as politely as I could, what these people did with the bundles of straw and the bags of grain.

"What do you suppose?" was the bluff reply. "Yer a little fresh, boss."

I assured the man that, as a stranger in New York, I had only asked out of curiosity, and hoped he would excuse me. I soon gained his confidence and went away with some points on latter-day civilization of a very suggestive character to the student of "ethical culture."

This clerk of the grain store informed me that cellars and basements constituted the lodging places of a considerable portion of the inhabitants of Mulberry street The enterprising landlord provides a stove in the middle of the floor, upon which is a kettle of water. On the sides of the den bunks are built up to the ceiling. The lodger provides his own bedding, which consists of an armful of straw, purchased at the feed store for five cents, and which may do service for an indefinite time. With the lodging is included the kitchen privileges. These consist of the use of the hot water, which is supplied by a faucet in the kettle, and the right to warm or cook whatever fodder the lodger may chance to have on top of the stove. The fodder is usually oatmeal or cornmeal, which he has purchased at the feed store, added to such swill as he may beg or steal through the day. The bill for lodging and culinary privileges is something like 25 cents a week, and when it is considered that twenty or thirty, often of both sexes, are packed into these holes, the business of the hotel keeper becomes a quite lucrative one.

And yet this great New York abounds in schools and churches, charitable institutions and art galleries galore!

Kingsley and His Pets.

It is pleasing to recall the distinguished Canon Kingsley's attachment to dumb animals among the traits of his every day life. Like Mrs. Somerville, he believed that some of the created beings inferior to man were destined to share the blessings of a future state of existence. His dog and his horse were his friends. As a perfect horseman, possessing the patience and much of the skill of a Rarey, he was a pattern to all who ride, reasoning with the animal he governed, and talking to it in gentle tones, mindful that the panic fear both of horses and children is increased by harsh punishment. A Scotch terror named Dandy was the rector's companion in all his parish walks, a diligent attendant at cottage lectures and school lessons and a friend of the family during thirteen years. He was buried near home, under those fir trees on the lawn, beneath whose shade his master himself now lies. "Fideli Fideles" is the inscription on Dandy's gravestone. Close by lies Sweep, the retriever, and "Victor," a Teckel, presented to her distinguished chaplain by the Queen, rests on the same spot.

Even in this brief narrative, one would not willingly omit to mention the Rector's cats, the delight they afforded, and the affection they yielded, nor the "natter jacks" (running toads) of the garden, the sandwasps which frequented a cracked window frame, the flycatcher that nested every year beneath the master's bedroom window, and the favorite slowworm of the churchyard. Kingley's children were taught to handle gently even toads, frogs and beetles, these being, as he would tell them, "the works and wonders, like all things He has made, of a living God." That such lessons were effective, his little girl proved one day by requesting "Daddy," before numerous guests, "to look at this delightful worm," a very long one which wriggled in her hand. "Study nature," he says. "Do not study matter for its own sake, but as the countenance of God. Study the forms and colors of leaves and flowers, and the growth and habits of plants—not to classify them, but to admire them and adore God! Study the sky! Study water! Study trees! Study the sounds and scents of nature! Study all things as beautiful in themselves, in order to recombine the elements of beauty."—National Review.

A Struggle for Life.

He looked up at the waiter and said, "A small steak." And added, as the waiter started to give the order, "Make it tender."

The waiter looked surprised, but said nothing. Then the victim got up and went through a physical movement of the arms, frightening an old lady with glasses, who sat at an opposite table. He was strengthening his muscles preparatory to encountering a small steak. A small steak will not be trifled with. When the small steak was brought the melee commenced as follows, according to the Marquis of Queensberry rules:

First Round—The stranger and the small steak came to the scratch and shook hands, the small steak looking confident and smiling. The stranger acted on the defence and sparred cautiously. Some neat science was displayed by the small steak, who sent the stranger to grass. Time of first round, two minutes and seven seconds.

Second Round—Both came up smiling. The small steak planted a blow on the stranger's nose, and dodged a left-bander. The stranger became groggy, when the referee called time. Time of second round, three minutes.

Ten rounds were fought, the small steak coming off victorious.

How to Advertise.

A contemporary, in some "hints on advertising," says: "Another thing which publishers have to content with is, that the results of advertising are not always visible to patrons, many of whom can not understand why custom can not be directly traced to the source where they expend their money to obtain it. Business is like a river with many tributaries, and in which it is impossible to trace every individual drop of water to the spring from whence it came. But if a journal is selected for advertising purposes, that reaches time and again, the persons most likely to be interested in the solicitation, that paper is certainly a sure fountain head of profitable trade in the stream of patronage far below. Temporary advertisements in a small way will not produce an immediate or permanent increase of business any more than a light shower will affect the depth of water in a well, but by persistency in the use of printer's ink in the right direction, the results sought will be gained in the end with interest."

An Intelligent Dog.

Andrew McCatherine, of Princeton, Maine, was the owner of a Newtoundland dog who for superior intelligence surpasses any we ever knew. Mc. Catherine permitted a friend to take the dog with him to the lumber woods. Pine squirrels were very thick around camp and obtained much of their food out of the box from which the horses were fed. The dog observing this hit upon a novel plan for obtaining fresh meat. He would take a mouthful of feed and bury himself in the hay with simply his nose sticking out, then he would open his mouth and wait. The squirrels in search of food would walk into the ingenious trap set for them, when the dog would shut his mouth and the game was captured In this way he supplied himself with fresh meat all winter.

The Millheim Journal.

THURSDAY, JAN. 13TH, 1887.

Published by R. A. BUMILLER.

Democratic State Committe.

In accordance with the rules of the Democracy of Pennsylvania, the Democratic State Committee will meet at the Bolton House, in the city of Harrisburg, at 4 p. m., on Wednesday, Jan. 19, to elect a Chairman, Permanent Secretary, and seven members of the Executive Committee; and also to fix the quadrennial apportionment of Delegates to the State Convention.

J. B. LICHTY, Secretary. W. U. HENSEL, Chairman.

A BILL appropriating $50,000 for a battle monument at Gettysburg has been offered in the senate by Senator Cameron. It also provides $25,000 for the maintenance of the land-marks on the field.

THE inauguration of the new governor of Pennsylvania will take place on next Tuesday, Jan. 18th. Harrisburg will of course put on its best "duds" and there will be a genuine old fashioned republican time.

BLAINE stock is getting below par. The latest in politics is the intention of Republicans to put upSenatorCameron as a candidate for the presidency in 1888, in case Blaine should have the cheek to again claim the nomination.

PRESIDENT CLEVELAND is said to have completely recovered from his rheumatic attack which had made him a sufferer for several months Though his sickness was at no time considered dangerous, the reports in the daily press made it bad enough.

SENATOR COOPER gracefully declines the appointment as secretary of the state in a letter to Gov.-elect Beaver. No doubt General Beayer feels relieved now. The matter reached a delicate stage, for the new governor had promised the office to Cooper and at the same time the republican politicians objected to the appointment on constitutional grounds. Taking it in all Gov. Beaver will have a hard time of it till he gets the different offices filled to the satisfaction of all the hungry applicants.

As the time for the election of a county superintendent of public schools approaches the names of several gentlemen who would be eminently fit to fill that position suggest themselves to the minds of the people. A writer from Centre Hall to the Daily News recommends Rev. Chas. Steck, of Bellefonte, but is not sure if that gentleman would accept the nomination. Be that as it may, we are certain that Rev. Steck would make as efficient a superintendent as he is a preacher. Again, the voters should make it a point to put a man there who will handle the functions of this important office as ably as the present superintendent has done.

THE apportionment of the state into congressional districts will be among the most important work of the new legislature and as to the probable shape in which the apportionment bill may be expected to come before the senate the following article from the Patriot will throw some light on the subject. It remarks that Senator James S. Rutan is said to be the coming chairman of the senate committee on apportionment. The senator occupied the same position when the present apportionment was made in 1874 and though he has been for some years absent from the legislature it may be said that he is familiar with the work which will devolve on him as chairman of that committee. He has had a wide experience both in politics and legislation, and though a partisan of the strictest sect, he is not innately an unfair man.

But politics is politics and Senator Rutan is a leader in the republican party. The party will no doubt insist on the enactment of a partisan apportionment bill, and Senator Rutan will be both able and willing to help his party in its aspirations on that point. It may reasonably be assumed therefore that the party demand for a gerrymander will not be discouraged by the chairman of the committee on apportionment, but no doubt will be promoted by him in every particular. He is not a man to falter when party interests are involved.

But the Constitution rather than party interest should be the guide of the chairman of the committee on apportionment in framing a bill to divide the state into congressional districts. The chairman was among the first and most emphatic to insist that the organic law should be respected in the formation of the governor's cabinet. What reasons are there that bind the governor-elect to support this instrument that do not apply with equal force to the senators and members of the legislature? It is to be hoped that Chairman Rutan will carefully consider this subject when he goes about making an apportionment bill.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From our regular correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11, 1887.

The week's work in Congress can be easily summarized, as the Senate was in session only three days and the House four. Besides a good deal of other private legislation the Senate pensioned the widow of General Logan at $2,000 a year, secretly discussed the Mexican Reciprocity treat, and debated the important pending bill on Interstate Commerce. The House passed three of the regular Appropriation bills, several dozen private pension bills, and discussed bills on the Public Buildings and Naval Reorganization. But what should be emphasized in the work of a Democratic House is the passage, without opposition, and without any provision for Confederate soldiers, of a pension bill for the current year appropriating over $76,000,000.

This amount is nearly as much as were the entire expenses of the Government before the war, and it ought to put the Republican ranters of the last Presidential campaign to the blush, if anything could. Democratic close-fistedness, indeed. Wherein does it consist?

Senator Beck has by no means given up his intention of pushing his bill to prohibit members of Congress from acting as attorneys for railroads which have received Government aid, although his long silence had led some of the railroad Senators to hope that they would not again be confronted by this bugbear. It is a sore trial for them to have to face this dreadful measure, especially since they know it is urged forward by a practically unanimous public sentiment. The debate on the Interstate Commerce bill is being long drawn out in the Senate as a shield to keep Mr. Beck off, but even it must come to an end when all the speakers have made their speeches for or against it.

It seems that the Revenue Reform question is really coming to the front now, and that another effort will be made to reach those surplus millions. This time it will be by the internal revenue men, Mr. Randall and his followers. They will advocate that the whole of the tobacco tax be removed, that the tax on alcohol used in the arts be abolished, and that fruit brandies be relieved of tax, but as to whether they will attempt any Tarriff alterations, no one can predict. The members of Congress from tobacco producing states feel that it is a duty they owe their constituents to vote for the repeal of the internal tax on tobacco in almost any shape that it might be presented.

These are exciting days for the Senators whose terms expire on the fourth of March, and there are many indications that the Senate will be much changed after that time, but whether or not it will be improved in character or ability is an open question. Senator Conger, of Michigan, who has been in public life for thirty-two years, is to be succeeded by Col. Stockbridge, because the latter is a richer man. The long bearded Republican millionaire from Nevada, Mr. W. M. Stewart, is coming back for another term. No one objects to him, however, as he was rather a lively man in the Senate, and having a pretentious looking residence here, takes a good deal of interest in the improvement of Washington city.

It is still doubtful who will get Gen. Logan's place, but Pennsylvania sends Mr. Quay, a well-known boss and intriguer, instead of Mr. Mitchell; and Minnesota sends ex-Governor Davis, a tarriff reformer, a writer of a book on Shakespeare, and a so-called orator in place of Mr. McMillan. Nebraska is hesitating between a demagogue and a magnate, and California is still in doubt as are also New York, Massachusetts, Tennessee, and other states.

As to the present condition of Democracy and what it is doing, Gen. Black, Commissioner of Pensions, gives a picture in a recent letter to Allen G. Thurman, which is calculated to rejoice the heart of every one to whom success is dear. Said he: "A triumphant Democracy administers the affairs of the Republic. Quietly but positively the reforms that have long been demanded by the people, so far as the Administrative branch of the Government is concerned, are in vigorous effect. Economy and law are the standards of official action. Partisanship does not throw its sword into the scales of justice. Submission to assessments by public officials for partisan purposes is not a condition of public service. Contracts are not given to the highest partisan bidder and the public lands are safe within the pale of the statutes. What more could be said in behalf of the great party which has brought about these things in the brief space of twenty-two months?

Miscellaneous News.

More than Fifty Below Zero.

FORT KEOGH, Mont., Jan. 9.—The weather last night was the coldest of the season. Spirit thermometers at post hospitals registered fifty below zero, which is their minimum, but it must have been much colder.

Praise Telegraphed to the President

CINCINNATI, Jan. 9.—At the Ohio Club banquet last night, Congressman John Follett lauded the administration, advised President Cleveland to continue in the course he has thus far observed, following the example of Jefferson and Jackson, and predicted that he would be his own successor. This portion of his speech was ordered telegraphed to the President.

Figeons Cross the Atlantic.

Henry Wagner, of Boston, sent by steamer nine carrier pigeons to London on the 9th of October last, and when they were given their freedom the whole number started on their long homeward journey across the Atlantic. The owner is in possession of three of his birds up to this time. One of them came flying direct to Boston. This is one of the longest flies on record.

Wiped Out by Chinese Pirates.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 9.—Advices from Hong Kong by the steamer City of Peking, state that the trouble on the frontier of Tonquin and China has assumed serious proportions. News has been received at Hong Kong from Pakhoi by the German steamer Signal that large bodies of Chinese pirates attacked the French garrison at Hakoi on Nov. 24th, and after a three days' siege completely annihilated the town. They also annihilated Mongkoi.

Dynamite in Philadelphia.

One hundred and forty-four dynamite cartridges exploded in a shanty on the vacant lots at Twenty-ninth and Stiles streets, Philadelphia, shortly after eight o'clock on Sunday night. One man was blown fifty feet and killed. The cause of the explosion is unknown. Thousands of window sashes were shattered and a panic followed among the people living in the neighborhood. The shock was felt in Germantown, Manayunk, Norristown, Frankford and adjoining towns.

Randall's Revenue Bill.

Carlisle and Morrison Will Not Stand in its Way.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—Speaker Carlisle and Ex-Speaker Randall had a lengthy conference to-day in reference to the proposed revenue reduction measure. The Speaker informed Mr. Randall that he was not favorable to his plan of reduction, but still he would not stand in the way of giving him a fair trial before the House, and he could say that Mr. Morrison would accord him the same facilities before the committee on ways and means. Mr. Randall was non-committal as to his plans and purposes. It was evidently his intention to await the action of the committee of which he was chairman, with McAdoo, of New Jersey, and Warner, of Ohio, as colleagues, authorized to prepare a bill embodying the protection Democratic position on reducing the surplus. Speaker Carlisle proposed a compromise measure, taking off a little in internal taxes and something in duties like sugar and adding salt, lumber and fish to the free list. Mr. Randall preferred to consult his friends before agreeing to any fixed plan of operations. It was understood, however, that they would see each other again when matters were in a more definite shape.

To Make Great Guns.

The Naval Board's Inspection of the Pittsburg Foundries.

PITTSBURG, Jan. 7.—The seven naval officers composing the special board on national ordinance plant arrived in this city this morning and spent the day in an inspection of the iron and steel mills. This board was appointed to submit plans and estimates for the erection of a plant in the Washington Navy Yard for furnishing heavy guns. It is intended to have the plant completed in two years. It will be of sufficient capacity to finish guns 16 inches in diameter, 45 feet in length and weighing 100 tons. The members of the board are familiar with the arguments presented in making steel cast guns, instead of the Krupp pattern. Captain Evans, one of the members, is a friend of the steel-cast guns and says the government, sooner or later, will be forced to try the experiment.

"The Krupp guns," said he, "cost $1.70 per pound, while the steel-cast guns can be made for 20 cents per pound. There is sufficient difference, you see, to induce the government to give the steel-cast gun a trial. I am a great friend of Pittsburg. There are better iron works here, more of them and with greater facilities than any other place in the United States. There is no diminution in the amount of natural gas, either. The flow is just as strong to-day as it ever was."

Drowned Off Virginia Coast.

Not One of the Twenty-two Men on Board was Saved—Bodies Recovered.

NORFOLK, Va., Jan. 10.—Later particulars from the wreck of the German ship Elizabeth, which went ashore on Virginia Beach fourteen miles south of Cape Henry, put the number of the crew at twenty-two instead of fifteen, not a man of whom was saved. This fact is learned from the two men of the life-saving crew who survive, and who have recovered consciousness. The bodies of the five men of the life-saving crew and four of the ship's crew which were recovered yesterday were in life preservers, and three more of the ship's crew without life preservers were picked up lower down the coast this morning. A body which has been indentified as that of the captain is among those recovered. On his person was a photograph marked Capt. F. Halberstadt, and letters addressed to Henry Kaulkman and several bills from Joseph Lamke & Co., Bremerhaven. Superintendent Poyner of the life saving service will board her to-day if possible.

As reported last night, not a word was spoken between the ship's crew and the life-saving men when they boarded her in their desperate attempt at rescue, and the cause of the wreck can never be positively known, although it is supposed that in attempting to make the capes of Virginia under reefed sails, sufficient allowance was not made for the strong currents which have caused several disastrous wrecks along the lower Virginia and North Carolina coasts during the last few years.

John Roach, the Great Ship Builder Dead.

After suffering several months from cancer, John Roach died at his residence in New York, late on Saturday night.

Flames in Ashland Causing Serious Loss.

A fire in Ashland on Sunday morning totally destroyed Wythe's bakery and his barn, the latter with two valuable horses in. Two barns on the opposite side of the street and a candy factory were also totally destroyed. The combined loss is about $9000.

An Editor loses his Life in doing Duty as a Fireman.

The most serious fire which occurred at Hartford for years occurred on Sunday about noon in the dry goods store of C. O. Sawyer & Co. and spread to two large adjoining stores. The loss by the fire is $125,000. Thos. R. Laughton, one of the editors of the Hartford Times lost his life while on duty as a fireman.

Interstate Agricultural Convention at Lake Charles.

Governor McEnery, of Louisiana, had issued a call for an Interstate Convention in the interest of stock raising, dairying, fruit-growing and general agriculture, to be held at Lake Charles, La., on the 22nd, 23rd and 24th of February, 1887.

The convention will be formally opened on Wednesday morning, after the close of Mardi Gras.

One of the most noteworthy indications of the great industrial progress of the Gulf States is the marked attention of their public men to agriculture and the efforts they are making to bring the theory and the methods of agriculture in those States into harmony with the teachings of science and the highest demands of a progressive civilization. Nature has been prodigal of her gifts to the State of Louisiana. For fertility of soil, salubrious climate, and for great variety of products, Lousiana ranks among the most favored countries of the globe.

Governor McEnery has shown commendable wisdom in thus giving the weight of his official influence to call a convention which cannot fail to be of inestimable value to the farm interest of that State and the country generally. We trust it may be widely noticed by the press, and that the results may be all the people anticipate.

This convention is so called that excursionists can remain in New Orleans till the close of Mardi Gras and take the train for Lake Charles on Tuesday evening.

Full information in regard to the convention and the low rates of transportation, can be obtained by addressing the Secretary, S. A. KNAPP, Lake Charles, La.

Home Evidence

No other preparation has won success at home equal to Hood's Sarsaparilla. In Lowell, Mass., where it is made, it is now, as it has been for years, the leading medicine for purifying the blood, and toning and strengthening the system. This "good name at home" is "a tower of strength abroad."

People of Lowell

It would require a volume to print all Lowell people have said in favor of Hood's Sarsaparilla. Mr. Albert Estes, living at 28 East Pine Street, Lowell, for 15 years employed as boss carpenter by J. W. Bennett, president of the Erie Telephone Company, had a large running sore come on his leg, which troubled him a year, when he began to take Hood's Sarsaparilla. The sore soon grew less in size, and in a short time disappeared.

Jos. Dunphy, 214 Central Street, Lowell, had swellings and lumps on his face and neck, which Hood's Sarsaparilla completely cured.

Praise Hood's Sarsaparilla

Mrs. C. W. Marriott, wife of the First Assistant Fire Engineer of Lowell, says that for 16 years she was troubled with stomach disorder and sick headache, which nothing relieved. The attacks came on every fortnight, when she was obliged to take her bed, and was unable to endure any noise. She took Hood's Sarsaparilla, and after a time the attacks ceased entirely.

Many more might be given had we room. On the recommendation of people of Lowell, who know us, we ask you to try

SOLD AT A SACRIFICE!

The Holidays are past, but a lot of holiday goods remain on our hands, and we will sell these goods at a

SACRIFICE.

What we wish to say to our customers is this: That we are going to sell cheaper than ever before.

WHY?

First—Because this is a dull season in general. But we are going to make it lively by selling goods way down and selling much.

Second—Because we have a big supply of winter goods on hand, that must be sold in order to make room for a spring stock.

Third—Because we can afford better to sell winter goods cheap than carry them over the season.

Fourth—Because we have the "Swing" and are bound to keep it.

REMEMBER!

We have anything from a needle to a hogshead of molasses—a good Sewing Machine or a house and lot.

—Messrs. Cassidy & Fiedler, the publishers of the Keystone Gazette, Bellefonte, who lost everything of their complete office outfit in the fire on Sunday, issued a circular sheet to their patrons this week, in which they announce that in a very short time they expect to be able to resume the publication of that sprightly sheet.

—We received orders for renewal of their subscriptions from Jos. Lose and Saml, Plotner, two old JOURNAL customers, residing in Elkhart, Ind. Both are remembered by many of our readers as former citizens of this valley and as men of the good old kind. They are doing right well in their western homes as far as wordly goods are concerned, but Mr. Lose says his health is not as good as it could be. We hope these gentlemen will let us hear from them oft and on.

THE BEST SALVE in the world for Cuts, Bruises, Sores, Ulcers, Salt Rheum, Fever Sores, Tetter, Chapped Hands, Chilblains, Corns, and all Skin Eruptions, and positively cures Piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by J. Eisenhuth.

—Geo. L. Springer, besides getting a new wife, also made some improvements in his barbershop, such as adding a new and large mirror, a fine cup case and a lot of new shaving mugs. George is now fixed in the best possible style.

—J. H. Musser & Son have secured the valuable services of Cyrus Bright, of Aaronsburg, in their boot & shoe store on Main street. He will certainly make a good assistant for what he don't know in the shoe line isn't worth knowing.

—B. O. Deininger and family, accompanied by Mrs. Bumiller, spent Tuesday and Wednesday at Squire Hering's, near Penn Hall. They report a very pleasant time. It could hardly have been otherwise with such a genial host and hostess.

—In our "personals" last week we failed to mention the visit of Mrs. A. O. Deininger, of Clarkstown, Pa., who for over a week was the guest of her daughter, Mrs. Charles Stover, at Aaronsburg and also called on relatives in this town during her stay.

—In the line of sleighs C. W. Albright on Main street holds a prominent place as a manufacturer. He turns out very substantial and neat work and charges moderate prices. For a good and elegant sleigh Albright's shop is one of the best places to go.

MUSICAL CONVENTION.—A musical convention will be held at the Salem Reformed Church, east of Penn Hall, under the direction of Prof. J. A. Weaver, commencing on Monday evening, Jan. 17th and ending with two concerts on Friday and Saturday evening, 21st and 22nd. All are invited to attend.

—Among the legal advertisements on our second page our readers will find a notice of the public sale of valuable Timberland in Haines township. The tract is part of the estate of Jacob L. Roup, late of Ferguson township, dec'd and is offered for sale by A. J. Orndorf & Wm. Roup, administrators.

—Musser & Alexander, the marble men, received a large lot of new marble of nearly every description last week, and they are consequently prepared all the better now to offer their patrons some of the very best and attractive work. And it is not to be forgotten that their prices suit the times.

—Not Extensive advertising but genuine merit has placed McDonald's Improved Liver Pills at the head of the list, the most exacting, scrupulous care exercised in selection of materials, the highest attainable chemical skill employed in their manufacture, and sold on an honest guarantee. Any dissatisfied buyers can have their money refunded.

—Shame on Millheim's three best citizens! Is it not a most sad thing that three of Millheim's most prominent citizens should be engaged in an almost fearful litigation and all from the fact, as it has now been discovered, of each one claiming to wear the best $2.50 whole calf shoe in the world, bought at Musser's Shoe Store, on Main street.

—The property of the late Samuel Weiser, Sr., in this place, consisting of two dwelling houses and a blacksmith shop on Main street and two valuable building lots on Penn street were not disposed of at last Saturday's sale, the bids having been too low. The executors will try to sell the same at private sale.

Brace Up.

You are feeling depressed, your appetite is poor, you are bothered with Headache, you are fidgety, nervous, and generally out of sorts, and want to brace up. Brace up, but not with stimulants, spring medicines, or bitters, which have for their basis very cheap, bad whiskey, and which stimulate you for an hour, and then leave you in a worse condition than before. What you want is an alterative that will purify your blood, start healthy action of Liver and Kidneys, restore your vitality, and give renewed health and strength. Such a medicine you will find in Electric Bitters, and only 50 cents a bottle at J. Eisenhuth's Drug Store.

—Geo. L. Springer, the junior barber of our town last week took a wife unto himself. Miss Jennie H. Schreffler is the happy bride and they were married in one of the eastern counties, at least we noticed in the Sunbury Democrat that George procured his license from the Recorder of Northumberland county. We offer our congratulations to the young couple.

—REPORT of Millheim Primary School for month ending Jan. 3rd, 1887, M. C. Gephart, teacher: No. in attendance, males 35, females 39, total 74; average attendance, males 30, females 28, total 58; Per cent, of attendance, males 87, females 73, total 80 Visitors, Hon. W. K. Alexander, Miss Gertie Musser, Miss Alice Stamm, Rev. Swengle, J. H. Reifsnyder, Esq., Adolph Miller.

—Erysipelas and obstinate ulcers, boils, carbuncles and running sores of every kind are cleansed, the poison-germs destroyed and a speedy cure effected by using Darbys Prophylactic Fluid.

"I have been afflicted with the Erysipelas. Nothing would heal the sore or stop the running. I used Darbys Prophylactic Fluid and found a speedy cure. I have also tried it in several other cases and it proved effectual."—S. P. GREER.

—Captain Mitchell, of the bark Antoine Sala, New York and Havana trade, came home in May, entirely helpless with rheumatism. He went to the mountains, but receiving no benefit, at his wife's request began to take Hood's Sarsaparilla. He immediately began to improve; in two months his rheumatism was all gone, and he sailed in command of his vessel a well man. Hood's Sarsaparilla will help you. Sold by druggists.

—The convention to be held in the old Reformed church at Aaronsburg under the auspices of the Ref. Ladies' Mite Society during the first week of February promises to be a grand success. Prof. William Moyer, of the Freeburg Musical College will be in charge of it as instructor. The services of Mrs. Noah Corman, of Rebersburg, are secured as organist. Profs. A. N. Bierly and Lowell Meyer and other singers throughout the country have signified their intention to be in attendance.

ANOTHER GONE.—Sebastian Musser, a widely-known old gentleman, and for years a resident of Penn township, departed this life on Sunday morning. Deceased had been ailing for the last few years with complaints incident to old age. Several grown children, all married, survive him and a large circle of relatives join them as mourners. The funeral took place from his late residence on Tuesday forenoon, when the remains were buried in Paradise Cemetery, Rev. Shambach officiating.

—Our towncouncil have passed an ordinance granting the right of way to the Central Pennsylvania Telephone and Supply Co. The ordinance will be printed in bill form and posted throughout the town. The ordinance provides that the poles and lines shall be erected so as to cause as little damage and injury to the principal streets as possible, and shall be safe, substantial and made in a workmanlike manner. The ordinance is entirely in place but should have been passed more than a year ago. As it is, "better late than never."

—Our former townsman, A. O. Deininger, who is at present engaged in the manufacture of cigars at Clarkstown, Lycoming county was kind enough to remember the writer on Christmas with a box of splendid cigars of his own make. Of course we enjoyed them hugely and return our best thanks. If we are a judge of the weed, and we think we are, we are free to say that Mr. Deininger's brands are excellent and should find ready sale. Our dealers would do well to send to him for trial boxes.

The readers of the JOURNAL will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known in the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucus surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease and giving the patient strength, by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The Proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer one hundred dollars, for any case it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address, —The Bellefonte Daily News in speaking of the necessity of getting additional apparatus for fighting fires in that town says that either a fire engine or hook and ladder appliances could be put to excellent use. But in the end the Daily News man decides in favor of hooks and ladders by saying that they seem most necessary, as often fires can be controlled most easily by pulling down the walls. And then Bellefonte is fixed like Millheim was in former years—not a long ladder to be had in the whole town.

—John Crawford, of Philadelphia, arrived in town on Monday afternoon. As is natural when he came in sight of town he paid particular attention to the factory building in course of erection west of Penn street. He seems pleased with the structure and now that he is on hand in person the Knitting Mills matter will of course receive a new impetus. Jacob Alter's carpenter shop on North street has been procured to set up about ten machines for the purpose of educating a number of handsin handling the knitting machines.

REAPER DEATH.—Mrs. Meyer, of Haines township, the widow of Samuel H. Meyer, who several years ago resided in this place and had charge of D. A. Musser's brick mill, followed her husband to eternity on Monday morning. The lady had been a subject of that dread disease, consumption, for several years and it finally ended her life. Shortly after her husband's death which occurred about five years ago, the lady removed to Aaronsburg, where she took charge of the toll gate. On account of bad health she had to give up her place there. Mrs. Meyer was much respected by all who knew her as a kind and gentle woman and as a faithful Christian. She leaves one son, Ammon, who sadly mourns the death of his beloved mother. The remains were buried at Woodward yesterday forenoon.

FIRE FIRE!.—On Thursday forenoon, Jan. 6th, Lock Haven had a large fire which destroyed what is known as the Kremer block. The city postoffice was located in the block. A number of merchants were burned out and lost a large amounts of goods. The total loss is estimated at $40,000.

DESTRUCTIVE FIRE.—On Thursday night, about 12 oclock, John J. Fisher's carriage shops at Rockville, one mile west of Rebersburg took fire and were totally destroyed, along with all the contents. Several finished sleighs, buggies, and carriages, a large amount of half-done work, several sets of the finest and most expensive tools in fact everything to be found in such a shop, was burned. The fire soon communicated to Mr. Fishar's dwelling house which stood quite close to the shops and that building as well as all the furniture in it was also laid in ashes in a very short time. All efforts to stop the work of the flames proved futile the heat being too intense to permit the near approach of the bucket brigade. We understand that Mr. Fisher and family barely escaped with their lives, some of the children being even very scantily dressed. It is said the neighbors had their hands full in saving their adjoining homes and they say that but for the snow on the houseroofs it would have been impossible to check the conflagration. Most of the loss is covered by insurance.

LARGE FIRE IN BELLEFONTE.—The following account gleaned from Monday's Philadelphia Times adds another to the list of destructive conflagrations which befell our county seat within two years: Fire was discovered early on Sunday morning in the basement of the Valentine Company's store in Bush's Arcade, on High street. The morning being severely cold, the firemen were unable to operate until the flames had progressed so far that they became unmanageable, resulting in the entire destruction of the building, including the Valentine store, dry goods and groceries; Dawson & Bro.'s bakery; W. T. Twitmire, stoves and tinware; E. L. Powers, boots and shoes; Dr. F. Kirk, drug store; W. Tripple, tailoring; Dr. Rothrocks, dental rooms; Mrs. Robinson, boarding apartment; the Keystone Gazette printing office, the armory of Company B. Fifth Regiment and the Masonic lodge rooms. Some half a dozen families occupied apartments in the building and were among the sufferers. The arms and equipments of Company B were destroyed. The Masons had recently refitted and refurnished their rooms at an expense of $5,000, but saved nothing. Guggenheimer's clothing, leather and fur store, in an adjoining building, was much damaged by water. The entire loss is estimated at from $75,000 to $100,000. The fire was incendiary.

—JUST SO. The wise and prudent man now procures a bottle of Dr. Kessler's Celebrated English Cough Medicine and keeps it in the house to be prepared for croup and whooping-cough emergencies. It never fails. It never disappoints. Instructions for treatment of croup and whooping-cough on each wrapper. Nothing like it for colds and all lung troubles. Dissatisfied buyers can have their money returned.

Hood's Sarsaparilla is made by C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass. Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5.

—When we read the last paragraph of the Coburn communication it fairly bewildered us. In fact we once thought it was Millheim the correspondent was writing about. You see dear "Vale" your sistertown, our enterprising, thriving little borough of Millheim is precisely in the same shoes and your sentiments on gossip and scandal voiced ours so minutely that we thought you stole the words out of our mouth. It is a state of affairs that will greatly disturb the peace and tranquility of any town and will create a hateful and unbrotherly spirit in the churches. In the poet's words

"He who stabs my name
Would stab my person too
Did not the hangman's rope
Lie in the way."

However there are always two sides to a question and it is a long established fact that slanderers generally have the darkest past records themselves and their vile nature cause them to revel in the very deepest mire. They will never learn the lesson given in the scripture passage "Thou hypocrite, first cast out the beam out of thine own eye; and then shalt thou see clearly to cast out the mote out of thy brother's eye."

Most Excellent.

J. J. Atkins, Chief of Police, Knoxville, Tenn., writes: "My family and I are beneficiaries of your most excellent medicine, Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption; having found it to be all that you claim for it, desire to testify to its virtue. Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption is guaranteed to cure Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Asthma, Croup and every affection of Throat, Chest and Lungs.

AARONSBURG.

Some of the thermometers in town registered as low as 15 deg. below zero, during the close of last week.

Geo. Bollinger tried his hand at handling prop-timber for a few days for Pardee & Co., in the mountains south of town. Too hard work, give it up. What's next George.

J. H. Musser and W. H. Philips had been to Shamokin, Pa., to look after their merchantile interests there.

Wm. H. Cassler and his son Rush had been to Sommerset Co. last week looking up a lumber job. We are told Mr. Cassler will move one of the saw mills to that county some time next spring.

Thos. Harper has opened a feed store in Rebersburg, Pa. Geo. Weaver of the above place is conducting the business for Mr. Harper.

The few of our town attending the Musical convention at Woodward report having a splendid time. The attendance was large and its financial result beyond expectation. Nearly one hundred dollars taken in during the entire week.

Aaronsburg will have a tin shop in the near future. A Mr. Fry from Spruce-town who has purchased the J. R. Bell property will be the citizen's tinner and for all others who may call on him.

Dutch John Volk, formerly in the employ of Jas. P. Coburn, is at present the next best man at the H. G. Shafer house, Spring Mills, Pa.

Mrs. Sarah Shafer has gone to Richfield, Pa., to visit her daughter Mrs. Lizzie Shelly. Of course Miss Minnie is keeping old maids hall during her mother's absence.

Rev. Lenhard (Luth.), of Rebersburg preached for Rev. Deitzler on Wednesday evening of last week. The protracted meeting in progress is becoming quite interesting.

Geo. Kreighbaum, living in Dr. Musser's house is away to Montour Co. attending his father's funeral. It was an unexpected and sorrowful telegram for George.

Our sick consisting of Mr. Michael Harper, whose case is considered not very dangerous still requires a regular attendent; Miss Polly Thomas who has suffered considerable for the last month is doing better at this writing; while Geo. Burd we are told is at present in the worst stage of typhoid fever.

We wish to announce to the Journal readers, especially those living in distant lands, that Elijah Burd has taken a wee little girl boarder. Lige thinks she has come to stay. We hope she will, as we think your order has been filled to the very letter.

ANOTHER.

COBURN.

Sleighing is excellent and farmers are taking advantage of it by bringing their grain to market. The grain houses were unusually lively last week taking in and shipping grain.

On Thursday last the freight train going west jumped the track just west of the station and blocked the main track for several hours, until a wreck train arrived here and put them on the track again. The accident was caused by a broken switch rod and no more damage was done than the detention to trains.

The Evangelical meeting is still in progress but the interest seems to be dying out which should not be the case as there are many more who should feel some interest in it.

Next Sabbath will decide whether the Sunday school shall be continued or not. Officers were to have been elected last Sabbath but there were not enough older persons on hand to elect. It would be a shame should our school be closed here, when we have from 50 to 100 scholars every Sunday. It all rests with the parents now, as there is no trouble at all in getting in the children. If parents would rather have their children roaming through the woods or on the ice skating, when they could be under the good influence of the Sabbath school, then they will be held accountable and not the small children. We hope to see a good turn-out next Sunday and hope the school will be kept up.

Coburn for its size has become as great a place for gossip and slander as many other places three or four times its size. Almost daily there is something new stirred up and passed from mouth to mouth until what at first was nothing is made up into something wonderful. It seems to us we have people in our midst whose chief delight is to gossip and watch their betters. They pry into all the family and business relations of their neighbors to see if they cannot find something to get up a new sensation. Now the worst about this deplorable business is that some who want to be good church members and who take an active part in church affair are guilty of such conduct. Where, oh where is that brotherly love and charity we are taught must be shown toward each other. Instead of trying to damage and ruin the business and character of a neighbor they should be the very ones to discountenance and frown down upon such things. It these people could only learn to see their own faults, which are legion, and chief among which is to mind other people's business.

MADISONBURG.

Daniel Holderman expects to move to near Bellefonte to work for his brother. Mr. Holderman will be missed in the church and Sunday school.

Hiram Lee, of Bellefonte, sojourned with his brother, Dr. Lee, of this place, a few days last week.

David Burd purchased Luther B. Stover's farm at the price of $50 per acre, Mr. Burd does not expect to move on the farm until a year after this and in the meantime Milfret Garret will take charge of the Stover farm.

Mrs. Lizzie Brown, of Bellefonte, spent last week with her parents, Samuel B. Shafer's.

Jacob Frank is still confined to the house with sickness and is having a serious time of it.

John Rachau, Jr. will move into Mr. Fiedler's house, vacated by Mr. Holderman.

PENN HALL.

Sleighing is still improving.

Mr. John Fisher and sister from Boalsburg were visiting in town last Saturday.

The protracted meeting at Green Grove is still in progress.

Mr. Geo. Weaver, a brother of Prof. Jno. A. Weaver was in town last week.

Rev. Yearick (Ref.) preached an interesting sermon on the 'Childhood of Jesus" last Sunday evening. On account of the bad weather the audience was small, —MUST GO. The horrible nauseous worm-seed compounds called vermifuges and worm syrups, many of them as worthless as they are obnoqious, have had their day. It's downright cruelty to compel a child to take them, when McDonald's Celebrated Worm Powders, so easy and pleasant to take that children will take them and never know a medicine is being administered, can be procured for the small sum of twenty-five cents. Any case of failure to cause expulsion where worms exist, the money promptly refunded.

A Pen Picture of George W. Childs

Picture to the eye one standing about 5 feet 7 inches, and well developed though somewhat stocky frame; a paunch just enough to indicate that good health and contented conscience make flesh; a face round, ruddy and with deep flushes of russet at the cheeks; a broad head, with a wide forehead, unmarked by crease or wrinkle; a complexion fair and lightened with the traces of the warm and generous blood which pulsates through it; a mouth, not small or large, covering a perfect set of teeth, and lips of pink; a chest deep and full; an eye of blue, full of expression and welcome; a voice gentle and assuring, and you have the outline of Geo. W. Childs. In dress Mr. Childs is scrupulously neat. His every day costume is a dark cutaway coat with pants and vest of the best material, but of subdued color; over this an overcoat of black. He affects the typical American silk hat, looking spick and span. He wears but little jewelry. I should imagine he wears a wig, because his hair seems just a shade too dark to naturally match his environment.

In habits Mr. Childs is most exemplary. He does not use intoxicants or use tobacco. Soon after 9 o'clock he reaches his office, where he remains until after 1 o'clock. Then he walks to Drexel's bank and lunches with Mr. Drexel, one of his warmest friends. No sooner than on the street then he becomes the object of recognition. In a block he will be stopped a dozen times by his fellow citizens, who are justly proud of him. He returns to his office at 2 o'clock and remains an hour or two.—Phila. Cor. Cincinnati Enquirer.

Cures By Prayer and Faith.

Mary Shower, for Years a Cripple, Throws Aside Her Crutches.

READING, January, 5.—The Mennonite Brethren in Chsist have been holding their convention in Faith Chapel, this city, during this week, and to-night the services consisted of prayer and faith cures. The Rev. Dr. Anderson, of Philadelphia, announced publicly this afternoon that a faith or healing meeting would be held this evening, and accordingly people flocked to the chapel from every section of the city. Many who were afflicted for years were among the congregation to-night. The reverend gentlemen present from other cities are Rev. Dr. Thomas Anderson and F. L. Haas, Philadelphia; C. W. Ruth, of Wilmington, Delaware, and James Trumbaur, of Philadelphia.

At 6.30 to-night Rev. Haas delivered a short address, and then invited those afflicted to come forward. Among those to respond were two sisters and one brother named Shower and Joseph Lepseltzer. These were carried to the altar. Prayer was offered and the afflicted annointed with oil. A few moments later Mary Shower, who was unable to walk for years without crutches, threw them aside, and to the surprise of everyone walked about the room. This was witnessed by hundreds. All those who were annointed received relief. The cures are exciting considerable interest.

Why Men Become Bald.

'Did you ever notice what classes of men are most commonly bald?' asked an expert hair-dresser the other day. 'Why, retail salesmen, book-keepers and office clerks in certain lines of business. 'Why should baldness affect them more than others?' 'Because they habitually stand or sit nearly every evening under gas lights. Book-keepers always have a strong light right over their heads or just in front of them. So do clerks who have to work at nights. Retail salesmen sell goods at night directly under two powerful burners, and most of the time their heads are not more than two or three feet from the flame. The artificial heat dries out the hair, makes it brittle and unhealthy, and finally kills it at the root. People who sit under the gaslight should wear some kind of a cool, non-conducting headgear to protect themselves. I have an idea, too, that after the electric light has been in universal use for a generation or two, baldness will be as scarce as it was before gaslights and night work got common together.'

After Forty years' experience in the preparation of more than One Hundred Thousand applications for patents in the United States and Foreign countries, the publishers of the Scientific American continue to act as solicitors for patents, caveats, trade-marks, copyrights, etc., for the United States, and to obtain patents in Canada, England, France, Germany, and all other countries. Their experience is unequaled and their facilities are unsurpassed.

Drawings and specifications prepared and filed in the Patent Office on short notice. Terms very reasonable. No charge for examination of models or drawings. Advice by mail free.

Patents obtained through Munn & Co. are noticed in the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN, which has the largest circulation and is the most influential newspaper of its kind published in the world. The advantages of such a notice every patentee understands.

This large and splendidly illustrated newspaper is published WEEKLY at $3.00 a year, and is admitted to be the best paper devoted to science, mechanics, inventions, engineering works, and other departments of industrial progress, published in any country. It contains the names of all patentees and title of every invention patented each week. Try it four months for one dollar. Sold by all newsdealers.

If you have an invention to patent write to Munn & Co., publishers of Scientific American, 261 Broadway, New York.
